Or via the staff located at your child's private school.

Parentally Placed Private School Students

Parentally Placed Private School Students (PPPSS) are school-aged students (K-12) with disabilities enrolled in not-for-profit private schools. IDEA states that the school district in which a private school is located is responsible for locating and assessing students with disabilities that have been parentally placed in non-profit private schools. Child find responsibilities lie with the district where the private school is located.

Child Find Services for Private School Student's include:

- Assistance in determining if a private school student may need special education services under federal law.
- Reevaluation of parentally placed private school students previously found eligible for an IEP.
- Offer of a Service Plan with consultative services
